The vine luxuriantly, but is pruned every year in any and February, so as to grow into a stalk and a half or four feet high, from the top of branches are allowed to sprout out sideways in branches are allowed to sprout out sideways in airections. These branches are pruned down by year to the length of about a foot. The grapes wonly on new wood, which falls to the ground, and thus forms a kind of leafy cylinder, of which the stalk is the axis; and within the cylinder, under the leaves, the grapes grow and ripen beautifully. The first year, the vines produce nothing save wood and leaves; the second year they produce a few small bunches—perhaps one to a dozen vines; the third year they yield from one to four pounds per vine; the fourth year from six to eight pounds; the fifth from eight to twelve pounds; and from the sixth to the fortieth year, from ten to twenty pounds. After the fortieth year the produce begins to fall off. The grapes begin to ripen about the end of July.

The grapes begin to ripen about the end of July, and the last ones are fully ripe beforee he beginning of October. The bunches are cut off, place entitly in baskets, taken to the storehouse, and there packed into boxes for the market, or sent to the vine press. Those intended for the market are at the beginning of the season packed in boxes with paper, but later, when the fruit has become riper and more tender, paper will no longer serve te whole number of vines in Commin was red to be 1,581,224 in 1856, of which number resent time is not less than 2,000,000-a great number having been set out this year. The follow-ing figures represent the numbers of vines as reported in the principal wine growing counties of the State

That the human body, besides its grosser wants of food and covering, has its more delicate needs, robbed of which, it perishes more slowly and subtly, but as surely as when frozen or starved. One of these subtile, but absolute conditions of health, is light. Without light, the body of a blind man pines, as pines a tree without light. Without light, man's body perishes; with insufficient light, it droops. Another of the body's absolute needs is work. Another is conversation with human beings. If, by implating a valgar mind that has collected no healthy isolating a valgar mind that has collected no healthy food to feed on in time of dearth, you starve it to a stand-still, the body runs down, like a watch that has not been wound up. Against this law of nature, it is not only impious, but idiotic, to struggle. Almighty God has made man so, and so he will remain

Whaleships in the Pacific Ocean. PRINTING OFFICE.

OFFICE OF THE PANAMA RAIL-ROAD COMPANY, New YORK, July 20, 1887.

The Panama Rail-Road Company takes this method of informing those interested in the Whaling business, of the advantages offered by the Railroad arross the Isihmus of Panama, for the shipment of Oil from the Pacific to the United States, and for sending outfits and supplies from the United States, and for sending outfits and supplies from the United States to Panama.

The Railroad has been in regular and successful operation for more than two years, and its capacity for the transportation of every description of merchandise, including Oil, Provisions, &c., has been fully tested. The attention of several Captains of whaleships has recently been turned to the subject of shipping their oil from Panama to New York during the present season, and the Panama Rail-Road Company has made arrangements to afford every facility which may be required for the accomplishment of this important object. A Pier, 450 feet long, has been built in the bay of Panama, to the end of which Freight Cars are run to receive cargoes from lighters or vessels lying alongside, and deliver the same alongside of vessels at Aspinwall. Vessels of from 200 to 300 tons can lie at the Pier with safety, grounding in the mud at low water.

The vessels to ands from Aspinwall are fast-sailing brigs, be
